

It is necessary to extend the June 2, 2003 date in order that people can become informed on this issue. It directly effects each individual and to rush this through before the American public understands the consequences is the blatant denial of the democratic process.